

Your Friday Water Report

This Week's Topic:

The Bradner Reservoir Protest

The Storrie Project Water Users Association and the Wildlife Refuge protest is delaying the City's Bradner expansion.

The protest claims expanded storage space for the City will impair their junior water rights, even though the City has enough senior diversion rights to gradually fill the reservoir over several years.

The State Engineer directed mediation sessions to take place so as to determine whether a mutually acceptable and properly legal deal can be arranged to resolve the impairment issue. Storrie's proposed deal is that City pays to line the leaky canal from the Storrie Lake to the Storrie users in exchange for getting equivalent storage space in Storrie Lake.
